

The background of the poster is a vibrant, abstract composition. It features a large, swirling circular pattern in shades of orange, yellow, and pink, resembling a stylized sun or a dynamic motion blur. Overlaid on this is a map of Perthshire, Scotland, with its various regions colored in green, blue, and purple. The text is prominently displayed in the upper half of the image.

@artisanand

Welcome to the 2023 Open Studios Festival! We are back and celebrating our Perthshire makers in all their glory. We have a new logo for the Festival, and we hope the Festival will be an annual event from Wednesday to Monday over the second weekend in September.

This year there are over 120 different artists taking part from all corners of Perthshire. Visit our website to search by name, media or location and favourite the people you want to see – print out your list and off you go. There are parts of Perthshire where connectivity is poor so have the brochure with you or your printed list. Everyone has a What 3 Words address to help you find them and there are more details on the website for example specific directions or events so do check out anyone you're planning to visit.

We have moved away from the idea of routes to dividing Perthshire into six areas. We hope this will encourage people to see art that they would not necessarily see if they were following a specific route. We also know that the starting point for people may well be anywhere in Perthshire.

Don't forget the Festival Showcase at The Bield – very close to Perth. Here you can see who is doing what and then follow up with a visit further afield. It's open from 2nd to 11th of September.

If you miss the Festival, then we now have an all-year-round Perthshire Creative Trail with a searchable website with artists and galleries places to visit.

It's been a difficult few years, but our artists are ready and waiting to meet you!

VISIT OUR FESTIVAL SHOWCASE

2nd - 11th September

Laura Woods

Artists taking part in the Festival will also have pieces on display at The Barn Gallery (by Perth). The Showcase offers visitors the opportunity to see physical examples of work, which, in addition to the digital images available on the website, will, we hope, help visitors choose which artist studios to visit.

June McEwan - Willow Works

During and since Covid there has been a noticeable increase in the art bought from digital sources. While we're all pleased to have art being bought through any channel, there is nothing as uplifting as wandering through a gallery, where there are amazing pieces in media you may not have seen before.

Rosemary Bassett - Jam Session

Cathy Wagstaff will be exhibiting her work at the Showcase. Why not take the opportunity to chat with her about her inspiration, techniques and work on display.

1 Cathy Wagstaff

hello@cathywagstaff.com - www.cathywagstaff.com

My latest work depicts the gentle light of the Scottish sky in the Spring, from evening light reflected in the River Tay, to the clouds and colours of the golden hour drifting across the valley giving you a sense of freedom and wide-open space. This year I will be exhibiting at the POS Festival Showcase at The Bield. I'll be there, so you can ask me about my paintings or just enjoy a discussion about art.

ros_macdonald@hotmail.co.uk - fb.com/InkyWorks

"Welcome to my new studio!" My aim is to achieve bold, punchy pieces of abstract naturalism. I graduated in Display and Design in 1972 from DCC. I work mainly in acrylic ink and am inspired by the beauty of my native Angus, but love the West coast. I try to achieve an individual approach and enjoy experimenting with textures and colour reflecting the seasons. My print work features quirky seaside and garden birds.

Wild Words at Innerpeffray! The Library of Innerpeffray has been championing reading since 1680, and in 2023 will be celebrating the joy of the written word with a series of talks and workshops running from 7th-10th September. Our theme this year is "Wild Words" and will feature dramatic tales of Jacobite uprisings, writing inspired by the wild nature of Scotland, celebrations of poetry both local and national and even a chance for adults and children alike to let their imaginations run wild in our creative workshops. I am an artist/printmaker working mainly with Linocut relief prints. The main inspiration for my work is the beautiful countryside, the diverse flora and fauna of the Devon valley where we live. I work out of my studio, a converted cow barn, on a small farm near Rumbling Bridge where I am lucky enough to have my own printing press, which I will be demonstrating throughout the festival.
